EXTRA SESSION LIKELY IN JUNE

Supply Bill Fails of Passage as Legislature Quits Amid Battle Over Fund Slash

COMPROMISE REJECTED

Measure Approved by House 74 to 32 Killed in Senate by Vote of 24 to 9

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O May 3—Failure of the Ohio legislature to appropriate funds for 1937-38 expenses of the state government in its four month regular session senate leaders said today made necessary a special session probably in June.

The legislature adjourned at 2 30 a m Sunday after enactment of a biennial appropriation bill was blocked amid a controversy springing from the possibly first concerted effort in the general assembly in two decades to slash millions of dollars from departmental budgets.

A perfunctory session is scheduled May 10 to permit presiding officers to sign the last of 225 bills passed since the assembly convened Jan 4. Sine die adjournment will follow unless an attempt is made to revive the appropriation bill.

Democratic Floor Leader Keith Lawrence said the senate would not hold a working session May 10 and observers considered it unlikely that the session would be held over while the administration and no new taxes bloc sought again to reach a compromise.

Senate Rejects Compromise

Prospects of immediate enactment of the appropriation bill—most important business of the current session—collapsed early Sunday morning when the senate rejected a compromise measure by a vote of 24 to 9. The house had approved the compromise 74 to 32.

Revenue for operation of state departments until July 1 is provided in a partial appropriation bill enacted early in the year.

The question of additional funds for poor relief might also be taken up in the special session. After appropriating $6 000 000 for the needy the legislature turned the entire responsibility for relief back to the cities and townships April 1.

The senate's rejection of the compromise appropriation bill represented an overwhelming victory for the anti-new taxes bloc headed by Sen Horace W Baggott Democrat of Montgomery which sought to cut an asserted $16 000 000 out of the administration's financial program to obviate new taxes.

Opposed Budget Slash

The compromise bill prepared by a joint committee of the senate and house failed to make the reductions demanded by the economy bloc and Sen Harold D Nichol Democrat of Clermont declared "a vote for this bill is a vote for new taxes."

The group insisted upon a cut of $2 500 000 in general revenue fund budgets alone. Chairman Bernard J McCluske of the conference committee said the bill trimmed $1 141 000 from the revenue fund expenditures total of $46,917 497 recommended by the governor's budget commission.

Lack of knowledge of the structure and total of the compromise bill, which was not submitted to the legislature until about 2 a. m., caused several senators to vote against it, they said.

The situation is in sharp contrast to that of two years ago, when Gov Martin L. Davey demanded economy and vetoed nearly $2,000 000 in the appropriation

WALLY FREED, DUKE DASHES TO HER SIDE

Divorce Decree Made Final in Brief Court Session as Few People Look On

PAIR TO MEET NEAR TOURS

Mrs Simpson's Spokesman Insists No Wedding Before Coronation May 12

By The Associated Press

LONDON May 3—A 75-second bit of British court routine freed Wallis Warfield Simpson finally from her nine-year-old marriage to a London ship broker today and started Edward of Windsor from his lonely Austrian retreat toward his betrothed in the French Touraine.

The final divorce decree was pronounced with a minimum of ostentation before a handful of spectators in the London divorce court. Sir Boyd Merriman presiding judge nodded his head and said the words that freed Mrs Simpson for the last act of England's classic drama of conflict between crown and cupid.

Less than two hours later the Duke of Windsor until last December Edward VIII King of England announced he was leaving Austria at once for Tours France. Near Tours Mrs Simpson remained in seclusion at the chateau de Cande.

Won't Wed Before Coronation

At the chateau Mrs Simpson's spokesman continued to insist that there would be no wedding until after May 12 when Edward's brother George VI is to be crowned with his queen in London town.

But the fact remained that Mrs Simpson who married Ernest Aldrich Simpson her second husband on July 21 1928 was legally free to marry the former king at any moment.

The duke boarded the Arlberg express at Salzburg at 4 p m (10 a m E S T)

Edward heard of the issuance of the London decree as he was getting into his mountain-climbing togs for a short excursion into the hills.

He flung them aside and made immediate arrangements to go to France. All his affairs here were in shape.

There was no great excitement at Appesbach for everyone knew what would happen. But the duke hovered eagerly over the telephone receiving several calls from London and Paris.

Then he dispatched a telegram to President Miklas thanking Austria and its citizens for making his self-enforced exile a pleasant one.

The London divorce court in a routine procedure requiring less than one minute made final the divorce nisi Mrs Simpson obtained at Ipswich Oct. 27 on charges of infidelity.

A court clerk asked presiding Judge Sir Merriman to make absolute the 78 divorce cases on the docket including Mrs Simpson's.

"Is there any intervention?" intoned the robed justice to the silent court room.

Plans to increase operations to a point where between 500 and 600 persons will be employed by July 1 are being pushed by officials of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co. One hundred and sixty persons now are working.

To avoid difficulty in the employment office company officials have asked that persons seeking jobs when operations increase wait until about June 15 before seeking work since the increase in employment will not come until that time.

Sheriff Renews Night Patrol in War on Thieves

Poultry Raid on Farm Near Prospect Starts Hunt for Suspects

Renewal of hostilities between Sheriff Fred E Miller and farm thieves quiet for nearly two months broke out Saturday night when approximately 100 chickens were stolen from the brooder house of Mrs F L Isler of the David Gooding pike two and one half miles northeast of Prospect.

Sheriff Miller said he will immediately begin an intensive night patrol of county roads in an effort to halt further thefts. Three cars will travel the roads each night and investigate all parked cars or those which appear suspicious.

The patrol generally maintained throughout the year was halted temporarily about two months ago when thefts died down the sheriff said. On the last patrol only one parked car was found in 100 miles. Although not aimed at lovers lane parkers the patrol usually reduces their number the sheriff said.

The Saturday night theft occurred between 8 and 11 p m when the family was in Marion and is the second at the Isler farm within a week. Last Saturday approximately 30 young chickens were stolen. The birds in both thefts weighed between two and a half and three pounds each and are valued at about $1 apiece. Sheriff Miller said entrance to the brooder house was gained through an unlocked door.

DEMANDS GROW LOUDER FOR CENSUS OF JOBLESS

Senate Commerce Committee Considers Proposal Despite Roosevelt's Claim It Would Be of Little Value

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 3—Proposals for a census of the unemployed received consideration today by a senate commerce subcommittee, despite the opposition of President Roosevelt.

The commerce department's business advisory council and other groups advocating the census have contended it is the best means of determining the exact number of idle.

President Roosevelt said at his press conference Tuesday that he believed such a census would add little information to that already available.

The unemployed total is estimated at about 9,000,000 by the two agencies which make regular calculations. The national industrial conference board and the American Federation of Labor. Their figures, however, do not represent a person-by-person check.

The number of persons at work in non agricultural industries in March was estimated last night at 34 138 000 by the bureau of labor statistics. It was a gain of 8,241,000 over March, 1932.

Although the total was only 1,239,000 lower than the figure for March, 1929 Secretary Perkins said it does not mean that unemployment has been reduced to within that margin of the 1929 level.

"A very considerable increase in the number of employable," she said, "has taken place during the past eight years due to normal population growth.

"The recovery of manufacturing employment to a level substantially equal to that of March, 1929, is particularly striking."

They pointed out that the cost of the entire 1930 population [illegible]—$13,000 000—was a small [illegible] of the $1,500,000,000 which the President has asked [illegible] in the next [illegible]

FILM STRIKERS' RANKS SWELL

6 000 Studio Workers Join Walkout But Guild Stars Delay Action One Week

3 500 PUT ON PICKET DUTY

Federated Crafts Demand Sole Bargaining Rights for Entire Movie Industry

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD May 3—Six thousand studio workers were swept into the spreading film industry strike today as guild actors arranged a week's delay in joining the walkout.

The 6 000 members of 11 unions of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts were ordered not to report to work this morning and 3 500 of them were assigned picket duty.

Basis of the dispute which first flared into a strike last Friday night is the Federated Crafts' demand on nine major companies for sole bargaining rights.

Saying "the dress rehearsal is over" Charles C Lessing of the crafts arranged picket lines not only at the studios but at Los Angeles theaters showing their product.

And for the first time in years the United States' two billion dollar motion picture industry faced a serious production stoppage.

Two thousand actors and actresses some unknown others famous but all aligned with the Screen Actors guild attended a meeting last night to vote on strike questions.

Like the Federated Crafts the guild is seeking a closed shop.

Secretary Aubrey Blair announced the guild instructed its directors to begin conferences with producers on Wednesday and report results to a general meeting Sunday. The producers had already agreed to negotiate.

Frank Gillmore head of the actors equity parent of the guild, flew to Hollywood from New York to attend the meeting.

In attendance were Joan Crawford Franchot Tone, Edna May Oliver Lee Tracy, Paul Muni, Chester Morris Cary Grant, Frank McHugh, Adolphe Menjou, Richard Dix Edward Arnold, Elissa Landi, Edmund Lowe Allen Jenkins, Joan Blondell, Dick Powell and other celebrities. President Robert Montgomery presided.

CLOTHING STOLEN FROM FARM HOME

Burglars Overlook Money and Jewelry.

A change of clothing was the loot of thieves Saturday night at the farm home of R. W. Zieg of five miles southeast of Marion, Sheriff Fred Miller reported today. Overlooking a valuable watch and ring and some money in a box, the intruders made off with only a suit of clothes, a pair of trousers and a sweater.

Mr. Zieg said there was no evidence of furniture or any articles being disturbed and that the thieves apparently had unlocked a door and gone directly to the clothes closet.

The sheriff was investigating this morning. The theft occurred between 8 and 11 p. m. as occupants of the house were away.

CITY AND COMPANY PRESENT ARGUMENTS FOR HEARING MAY 11

Move for Lower Charges Will Be Based on Audit of Records; Company Maps Defense.

VOLUMINOUS evidence and testimony on which the city's water rate controversy will be argued on May 11 before the state utilities commission was filed today with the commission by both the city and the Marion Water Co.

The controversy is over a proposal by the city, now on file with the utilities commission to cut present water rates 12½ per cent. The water company has appealed to the commission contending that the proposed new rates would make it impossible to operate at a reasonable profit.

The city's evidence filed as the commission's filing deadline arrived, consists of a 40-page audit and financial study of the company's records made by P. W. Wood Marion certified public accountant employed by city council. Mr Wood arrives at the conclusion the company is earning at least a 6 per cent return on its investment and possibly as much as 7 89 per cent depending on the method of figuring the valuation of the property. Also he contends the rate reduction proposed by the city would give the company a return of at least 4 01 per cent and possibly as much as 5 27 per cent the variation again depending on the figure considered as the value of the company's property.

The water company simultaneously filed seven volumes of evidence and testimony in which it contends it was able in 1936 to show only a 4 41 per cent rate of return on its investment. The company estimates its rate of return would drop to 2 02 per cent if the city's proposed 12½ per cent reduction were put into effect, and argues its prospects for the coming year are that only a 1 88 per cent rate of return will be obtained even if present rates are left unchanged.

Out of conflicting arguments centering chiefly on the valuation of the company's property and the expenses that are necessary to operate and maintain it, the commission will be asked to determine whether council's proposed reduction should be put into effect or the company's appeal to reject the reduction should be granted.

The theory of rate making and hearings to determine whether certain rates are fair according to those familiar with commission procedure is to allow a schedule of rates that will yield sufficient revenue to pay reasonable operating expenses and leave a profit sufficient to pay the company and its shareholders a fair interest rate on the money invested. In the past a six per cent return frequently has been held to be a fair return for both the utility and the community served.

Through Mr Wood's audit the city is prepared to attack both the valuation of $1 541 236 which the company places on its property and the expenses the company contends are necessary. In the portion of his audit devoted to valuation of the company's property Mr Wood takes the average of the company's statements of capital set-up in 1935 and 1936 amounting to $1 610 601 81 as a starting point. From this he computed three possible figures that might be taken as a fair representation of the company's book value. Due to the fact that 5 000 shares of no-par value common stock listed under different methods of appraising as having a value of $5, $22 70, or $77 27 a share Mr Wood computes the book value of the property on all three bases rather than arbitrarily selecting one.

Figures Rate of Earning

If the common stock were to be allowed by the commission as having a value of only $5 a share, he computes the book value to be $1,148 676. Applying the results of his audit of the company's 1936 income and what he regards as fair operating expenses, he arrives at the opinion the company earned a return of 7 89 per cent on this book value in 1936 and would have had a 5 27 per cent rate of return had the city's proposed rate reduction been in effect last year.

On the basis of giving the no-par value stock a listing of $22.70, a figure he said was used as part of the plant value listed in records of the former owners of the company, he figures the book value of the property at $1,260,841 and the 1936 rate of return at 7 14 per cent and expresses the opinion the company would have had a return of 4 77 on this basis had the city's proposed reduction been in effect last year.

If the commission permits the company to list the stock at a valuation of $77.27, the book value would be $1,550,000 and the rate of return last year was 6 per cent under present rates and would have been 4.01 per cent under the reduction proposed by the city, he states.

Company Uses Appraisal

Whereas Mr. Wood, in the absence of an appraisal of the physical property, relies on book values, the company uses an appraisal by

Main Points in Rate Argument

Major points in transcripts of evidence and testimony filed with the utilities commission today by the city and the Marion Water Co are as follows

City's audit fixes water company's rate of return in 1936 at least six per cent; the company contends it was only 4 41 per cent.

If council's proposed 12½ per cent cut were to go in effect the city asserts the company would have a return of 4 01 per cent; the company argues reduced rates would yield only 2 02 per cent.

Council's accountant cites three possible book value valuations on company's property ranging from $1 148 676 to $1 550 000; company sets up the valuation at $1 541 236.

City's audit suggests slashing items from both company's valuation and operating expense records so far as rate making is concerned including part of company's payments to parent concerns; company claims economies for its group operating system.

Company cites delinquencies in city payments of hydrant rentals; audit for city represents that the company owes $3 600 to 670 individuals in Marion for lines connecting houses and water mains.

"What did Jude talk to you about in the game room?"

His shoulders were hunched. "That," he said, "is none of your damned business."

I know now that in that one moment I lost the opportunity of saving us all from what followed. My anger prevented me from seeing the effect that question and its answer had on any one in that room. Mike's attitude through that entire day had been getting increasingly on my nerves. At the demand of the entire party I had accepted a responsibility as distasteful to me as I was inadequate for it. And it was becoming increasingly evident that my inadequacy might prove disastrous.

I tried to keep my temper.

"What did Jude tell you, Mike?"

Michael looked at me a long look and a strange one. His face was set and I knew before he opened his mouth that he was lying. Well, they had all lied.

She told me that she thought the chimneys were in bad shape and this storm might make them dangerous. She didn't want to alarm any one else."

It was a feeble attempt, but I knew that second question would be just so much wasted breath. That much was evident from the set of his chin. Behind me Guy snorted indignantly.

"All right," I said wearily. "How long did it take her to tell you that?" He was eyeing me cautiously, trying to anticipate my thoughts.

"About five minutes."

Putting all my cards on the table, I create a sensation tomorrow.

CORPORATION ACT

Despite the approach of the war of 1812 times were good when the tenth session of the Ohio legislature—the same session that located the state capitol at Columbus—opened. The session began on Dec 10, 1811, and lasted until Feb 21, 1812.

Many persons were seeking the creation of corporations for various purposes. Until this session corporations could only be created by legislative act.

To relieve the legislature of this duty an act was passed on Jan 12, 1812, which placed the power for authorizing the formation of corporations in the hands of the secretary of state.

It Didn't Go Over

The windup of the general assembly's regular session has left everybody breathless and dizzy. When things quiet down there is a political phenomenon to be noted.

Gov. Davey, who has shown himself to be a shrewd politician at times, actually tried to maintain his prestige by criticizing what he called big business interests for opposing new taxes.

This was a direct reversal of the axiom that an office holder always must be against new taxes. Few politicians would dare to attempt such a thing unless the new taxes were going to be collected exclusively from the very wealthy. That is not the kind of new taxes which Ohio is considering.

Gov. Davey probably figured the stigma supposedly attached to big business would cancel out the stigma unquestionably attached to additional taxes. When the noise dies down, however, he will discover, if he puts his ear to the ground, that Ohio still doesn't like new taxes. Even if they were absolutely necessary, it wouldn't like them.

The Followup.

College seniors once more are holding those anxious elections for Best All Around Man, Most Scholarly Man, Best Looking Man, Best Dressed Man and Man Most Likely To Succeed.

Pictures of the winners invariably seem to prove that the boys—and the girls too when they select the cream of the crop—are getting handsomer, are dressing better and looking more intelligent.

But it is the Man Most Likely To Succeed who turns out to be most interesting. Frequently he isn't long on looks, on clothes or even on that bright look which a top notcher is supposed to have.

What is it then which prompts his brothers to see a rosy future for him? What does he have which they don't have? In what ways do young men of promise manifest their qualities of excellence before they have grappled with life?

More to the point, how many of these highly recommended lads make good, and how many end up working for the tousle-haired fellow who everybody expected would be a bum or a convict when it was time for the class to have its 10th reunion? Incidentally, what is Success?

For society's sake there should be some kind of a followup on the Men Most Like to Succeed. It might be a comfort to the men who succeeded without anything being expected of them.

Almighty Gold

Gold, as everyone knows, is the lifeblood of the western world. Unimportant in itself, it is indispensable in its relationship to other things. It is necessary, therefore, to try to understand gold.

For instance, it is interesting to know that on April 7 the United States had gold reserves of $[illegible], measured, of course, in what Al Smith once called baloney dollars.

In old-fashioned dollars the reserves would be worth only $[illegible]. Why? When the dollar was changed from 25.8 grains of gold to a little more than 15 grains, the change made the price of gold, as measured in dollars, jump from the old price of $20.67 an ounce to the present price of $35, an increase which many economists say is bound to [illegible] the [illegible] future.

Th[illegible] that the government [illegible] could raise commodity prices by putting [illegible] behind its dollars and [illegible] them cheaper. In that [illegible] would be forced into circulation [illegible] of them would be accumulated [illegible] who owed debts [illegible] would be [illegible] to pay and the end of the depression would be reached more quickly.

Greatly simplified, that is the story of gold under the new deal. Commodity prices did rise. Dollars circulated more rapidly. Presumably a lot of debts were paid off in these dollars. But at present there are rumors of an impending change in the gold content of the dollar, an upward change which would make the dollar more valuable. In other words, instead of 100 of them being required for a given transaction, maybe 95 or 90 of them would purchase the same value. Commodity prices, some say, now are too high.

In view of the great difficulty of understanding these things on the spur of the moment, it seems like a good idea to get set for another possible period of complexity over the mystery of a managed currency.

Other Phases of Wagner Act

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 3—There seems to be a rather general impression that because the supreme court of the United States upheld the Wagner labor act as constitutional in five specific cases brought before it, the act is constitutional and valid in every respect.

As a matter of fact there are rulings already promulgated by the national labor relations board which, if tested in a given lawsuit before the supreme court in the future, might result in an entirely different decision as to constitutionality [illegible] principle.

A good example, in fact a very vital one, is the attitude being assumed by the national labor relations board toward freedom of speech.

Everybody but the labor board is apparently aware that the first article of the bill of rights section of the Constitution of the United States says:

Congress shall make no law ... abridging the freedom of speech.

To be sure, congress has passed no such law, but by the same token no administrative agency or commission can frame such a law or regulation or interpret any law in such a way as to abridge the freedom of speech.

Yet a careful examination of the rulings of the national labor relations board and its first annual report will demonstrate that any American citizens who happen to be employers can no longer be guaranteed freedom of speech if their speeches in any way relate to their relations with employes.

Considered as Evidence

In several instances where employes have been addressed by employers the record of what has been said has been presented before the national labor relations board as evidence of an attitude amounting to a potential threat or intimidation of employes in their rights of collective bargaining.

The Wagner labor act says:

It shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer to interfere with, restrain or coerce employes in the exercise of the rights guaranteed in section 7 (rights of collective bargaining).

What is interference or restraint or coercion? Clearly an employer who threatens to dismiss an employe if he joins a union, or an employer who attempts to invade the secrecy of the ballot in an election or otherwise interposes some force to prevent employes from making a free choice of representatives to speak for them is guilty of violating the Wagner act.

But is an employer who stands up before his employees in mass meeting and tells them what he thinks about unionism or about the union they are being asked to join guilty of coercion or restraint? Assuming that every workman has an opportunity to cast a secret ballot and the nature of his vote is guarded from the employer's eyes, can it be said that a speech made to employes is a violation of the law?

There have been speeches of this kind made but the labor board has insisted that they were related to some potential threat [illegible] for [illegible]. Today many employes are being asked by employers who have [illegible] for decades just what [illegible] do [illegible] by a preferred organization [illegible] [illegible] that they want an independent [illegible] is directed from any [illegible] management [illegible] to the plant and [illegible] outside [illegible] seeking the advice of the [illegible] be given an [illegible] the employer. Has an employe no right to read [illegible] a free [illegible] of the employes [illegible] the pros and cons of organization?

Advice Is Barred

The regional labor board at Cincinnati, which is an arm of the national labor relations board, says that if the employer in a plant wants a company union or an independent union or any other kind of a union and a majority vote for it, they may under the Wagner act have such form of organization. But it appears that the national labor relations board considers any such advice when given by the employer to be a violation of the act. Thus in a decision on Feb. [illegible] 1935 the national labor board, then a part of the NRA, expressed itself on this very point. It should be noted that all decisions made by the national labor board when it was operating under NRA were specifically validated by a provision of the Wagner act when it was passed in July 1935. All these decisions now are being used by the national labor relations board and are therefore official precedents.

It appears that Mr. Hart, general manager of the Los Angeles Electric Railway company, addressed all the other employes of the company and said:

Many of the employes have asked regarding the joining of some union or association. Many of them seem to be of the opinion that they would rather not be associated with any union or organization. Personally I am rather in accord with these employes. As you know I have never been in favor of labor organizations but as the NRA allows for organization or joining of labor organizations and as we have stated that we intend to comply with the rules of NRA, you have the privilege to do what you think is in your best interest, but I can't help but feel that if you form an association of your own you will be best served.

Naturally, in the matter of collective bargaining I would prefer to deal with people that I have known for years and been associated with. I do want to point out to you that it is the duty of every member of this organization to cooperate with our President and our legislative bodies as nearly as possible 100 per cent in order that we may share in bringing back the much needed prosperity of this country.

The foregoing speech was accepted by the board as evidence of an attitude which the board insisted was related to subsequent discharge of union men.

Labor spokesmen, including Senator Wagner of New York, ask why employers should in any way advise their employes about unionization, that this is a matter solely between employes. Employers take the position that it is a matter which concerns the welfare of the company and its opportunity to continue operations uninterrupted by strikes. In some instances employers feel that the union in question has

The Wagner Act

Questions about operation of the Wagner labor relations act have multiplied since its validation by the supreme court three weeks ago today. The Star presents below some of the questions most frequently asked and the replies given The Associated Press by responsible Washington officials.

* * *

WASHINGTON, May 3—What jurisdiction has the labor relations board?

The board is empowered to prevent unfair labor practices affecting commerce and to investigate questions affecting commerce concerning representation of employes.

What are unfair practices under the law?

For an employer to interfere with employes in the exercise of the collective bargaining rights guaranteed; to dominate or interfere with formation or administration of a union or to contribute to its support; to discriminate among employes because of union membership; to encourage or discourage membership in any labor organization; to discriminate because an employe gave testimony under the act, or to refuse to bargain collectively.

Does the law define unfair practices by labor?

No, the restrictions are all upon employer.

How is "affecting commerce" defined?

To mean in commerce or burdening or obstructing commerce or the free flow of commerce, or having led or tending to lead to a labor dispute burdening or obstructing commerce or the free flow of commerce.

What effect has the supreme court action had on work of the board?

The court upheld the board's assumption of jurisdiction over five employers. The jurisdictional lines drawn in those cases are similar to those in other cases in which the board has rendered decisions. The board expects compliance by the 69 employers who have been ordered to cease unfair practices. A substantial part of the present work is to move for compliance either in appeals courts, if the cases have reached those courts, or by direct approach to the employers.

Has the court action increased the number of appeals to the board?

Appeals normally are made through the regional directors. There have been general indications of an increase, but the full effect will not be known for weeks. There has been a sharp increase in requests for information, however, most of them from employers.

Has the board been able to supply requested information?

Yes. The board's staff is small but has so far met the demand. On questions of policy, however, the board remains in quandary. It is a quasi-judicial body and faces difficulties when asked such questions without having a particular set of facts to consider. Employers must seek guidance in precedents set by board decision.

Does the board originate cases?

No. It acts only on sworn charges of violations.

Can an employer ask the board to call an election to ascertain the true strength of a bargaining group?

The board regulations say a petition for an election may be filed by an employe or any person or labor organization acting on his behalf. No election has been ordered at the request of an employer.

Chances Are Bad

THE FIRST quarter of the 20th century was the bloodiest period in all history, is the conclusion of a study of social and cultural movements of the last 2,500 years by Prof. Pitirim A. Sorokin, chairman of the sociology department at Harvard university.

After an analysis of 902 wars and 1,615 internal disturbances in the last 2,500 years Prof. Sorokin reported that the war index for the 20th century reached a total eight times greater than that for all the preceding centuries, according to the New York Times. Further information contained in the report as published by the Times follows:

The average man of the 13th century had 1,500 more chances to die peacefully in bed than has his descendant in the 20th, Prof. Sorokin believes.

The crisis facing the world today, the survey concluded, is neither purely economic nor political but due to decay in the type of culture that has dominated western civilization for 700 years. The dawn of the present century marked a definite break with the past, with the present generation revolting against tradition in art, literature, philosophy and religion, in war and revolution and even in the field of science.

The organism of the western society and culture seems to have not merely a number of local or superficial ailments, Prof. Sorokin remarked, but to be undergoing one of the deepest crises of its life. In this sense we are experiencing one of the sharpest turns on the historical road.

Transitional periods such as the one we are in now are the periods of notable increase of war activity and war magnitude, the survey reported.

The popular belief of the disappearance of war with the progress of civilization was found to be unsupported by facts.

The popular belief that in the history of any given nation the war movement tends to increase in the period of its decline and is low in the period of its socio-cultural, political and economic blossoming, the survey continued, is based upon mere wish and is contradicted by the facts.

If anything, the periods of greatest socio-cultural, political and economic blossoming of the nations studied coincide with a maximum of the belligerent activities of the nation.

A study of war in individual nations showed [illegible] wars occurring during [illegible] of her history. [illegible] was lowest with war occurring [illegible] of the years of her history. [illegible] was at war [illegible] per cent, France [illegible] 6 per cent, Russia [illegible] per cent, Greece [illegible] per cent [illegible]. The Berry Story Goes Away Back

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 3 — The Berry story goes away back and deep. For months now negotiations have been going on hotly between the TVA and Maj. George L. Berry (federal industrial coordinator, bulk and body of Labor's Non-Partisan League in the last campaign and champion of the politico-labor causes for Mr. Roosevelt).

Maj. Berry thought the marble, zinc and lead on his syndicate's land flooded by the Norris Dam backwater was worth millions. His own interest has been computed by his friends as something under $1,500,000, although he would settle probably for $200,000 or $300,000 less.

The TVA board of three felt the price was outlandish, so to speak, and was declined to settle and is threatening condemnation proceedings.

The matter was kept so confidential during all this period that even President Roosevelt is said by the Berry people to have been uninformed. But after Berry was mentioned in the public prints as the likely successor of the late Senator Bachman things began to happen.

Tips

Representative Taber conducted a lengthy discussion of TVA appropriations on the floor of the house last week. He spoke the following few unnoticed sentences:

I desire to call the attention of the house to the fact that there are a large number of claims pending against the TVA for so-called mineral properties and on page 449 of the hearings these claims are listed.

Among these claims are about 40 claims of C. A. Harris, W. H. Ford, George Collins and George L. Berry for $1,633,000. We are told by the directors of the TVA that they did not take a great deal of stock in the validity of these claims but I thought the house ought to know that this George L. Berry is the same who is the so-called chief coordinator of NRA, and I hope the TVA will stand up and fight for its rights and see that nothing is put over on them by this operation.

I think this is one of the things that ought to be watched very closely by the TVA and by the committee as they go over these claims in the future.

The page cited in the hearings showed this sole reference to the 40 claims and means in fine print without any further identifications thereto added:

For flooding properties, some said to contain marble in Norris Reservoir. Amount of claims reported as some millions of dollars. Amount submitted by owners' representatives to the authority for the first property which was considered $1,633,000. The value of these claims is disputed by the authority and condemnation proceedings have been authorized by the board to acquire the mineral rights below the surface of the Norris Reservoir. The outstanding interest consists of mineral leases.

That is all—and TVA officials at that time declined to say a word about it.

Delay

What happened was that Maj. Berry and his associates acquired land in the area to be flooded long ago, some of the acquisitions dating back twenty years. Berry was producing marble there but the zinc and lead deposits apparently were undeveloped. He considers it the very finest marble in the world.

But for some reason or other negotiations looking toward final settlement of the claims were not seriously undertaken until after the land was flooded by the Norris Dam. Then the dealing got warm. The TVA offered what Berry considered a ridiculous price. Eventually he was called in by the board. Some compromise negotiations were undertaken whereby the superintendent of mines under Interior Secretary Ickes was to have fixed a price which neither side was to be bound by.

The Berry side of the story is that he probably made a mistake in failing to go into the courts and up in the beginning, but he is now well armed with all his correspondence to the TVA, and a great volume of records to justify his position against any strained insinuations or allegations.

Significance

To an outsider such an affair may seem to be more political than serious, but politicos overlooked none of the possible ramifications. Their interest on this broad land acquisition subject has been whetted by the fact that the government has acquired vast amounts of it everywhere in connection with various projects during the past four years. The situation has inspired talk and surmises mostly unprintable because without foundation.

What has whetted interest in this particular case, however, is the fact that Chairman Arthur Morgan of TVA has been under cross-fire from a wing of the administration, what might be called the left wing, where Berry's sympathies lie.

It is quite a simple matter of valuation for the courts to settle, and apparently both sides wish it had been so settled a long time ago.

GARBO APPEARANCE IN COURT AWAITED

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES May 3—The legal machinery was geared today to raise the curtain on a court room drama starring Greta Garbo—in person.

But there was still doubt as the first spectators gathered whether the legendary Swede actually would come out of seclusion.

The actress is defendant in a $10,500 suit. It was brought by an assignee of David Shratter to recover three loans the former Berlin film producer said he advanced her in 1924.

At the time Garbo was a $400-a-week player in European pictures and rated obscure.

HUGE LOYAL WARSHIP HEADS FOR BILBAO

Heavy Guns To Be Trained on Rebel Lines Now Within Eight Miles of City

By The Associated Press

ST JEAN DE LUZ France May 3—Diplomatic quarters heard today that the Spanish government had sent its biggest battleship the Jaime Primero to the Bay of Biscay off Bilbao apparently in a move to shell insurgent lines around the Basque capital.

British and French men-of-war patrolled the bay today to protect merchant vessels bringing the first refugees out of Bilbao.

Diplomats asserted the Jaime Primero carrying 12-inch guns probably would be able to strike a crushing blow against insurgent vessels operating in the bay particularly since the sinking by government planes of the insurgents heaviest warship the Espana.

The recent apparent inactivity of the government fleet was explained as due to the fact that the Jaime Primero's big guns had only recently been returned from Madrid where they were used against the rebels.

While strict secrecy surrounded the plan reports indicated nine British freighters had left or would soon leave the Basque capital with some 5,000 women and children.

With Gen Mola's insurgents reported only eight miles from Bilbao there was no surety that more of the populace—swollen to at least 350,000 by the influx of refugees—could be taken to safety.

The British destroyer Faulknor which just escaped being hit by insurgent air bombs in Bilbao harbor Saturday—was to make the 0-mile run back to Bilbao to take out the staff of the British consulate and the French destroyer Terrible made ready to remove the French consul and French citizens.

which no dissenting voice was raised. Sir Boyd nodded his head to the clerk.

I pronounce the decree absolute the judge said quietly thereby freeing Mrs Simpson—who remained secluded in a French chateau—to wed the man who renounced his throne for love of her.

It was Mrs Simpson's second divorce. An earlier marriage to Lieut Earl W Spencer of the United States navy was dissolved in a Virginia divorce court in 192...

Only a few spectators were in the court's public gallery for the final scene in the divorce drama that touched off an empire shaking crisis.

Walter Frampton who represented Mrs Simpson in the original action at Ipswich attended the court session accompanied by a representative of her solicitors.

Frampton wearing the traditional black robe and white curled wig rose and hurried from the courtroom as soon as the decree was made final.

It was believed he immediately telephoned the news to Mrs Simpson at Tours France.

Windsor Speeds Toward France

By The Associated Press

ST WOLFGANG Austria May 3—Edward of Windsor bade this Austrian beauty spot goodbye today and hastened toward his newly freed betrothed in France.

Wallis Simpson told him by telephone Hurry up.

Just before noon the telephone rang in the remodeled pension Appesbach where the former king of a quarter of the world has spent the last of the lonely exile that began last December.

Edward was putting on his mountain climbing togs. He went to the telephone learned Mrs Simpson had been finally divorced from Ernest Aldrich Simpson in London.

Calls Wally on Phone

Immediately he called the chateau de Cande in France and in a few minutes he was speaking to his fiancee.

Then just at noon the duke announced he was leaving at once for Tours near the chateau. There was no disguising his elation.

The telephone talk however was long and serious. Members of the duke's household said Mrs Simpson urged him to hurry. He fitted action to her words.

Edward's crisp orders galvanized the house into action. His packing for the most part, was completed but the last details were rushed.

Bags were piled into the duke's car in time for him to catch the 4 o'clock express from Salzburg. *There a special car was moved in*to the station shortly before noon. A small truck took some of the luggage from St Wolfgang.

Edward it was disclosed had made earlier plans to wait until tomorrow before going to France. But Mrs Simpson's words changed his mind.

With the necessary orders given the duke rushed hatless from the villa toward where newspapermen and photographers were waiting.

He was all smiles.

How shall I pose? he asked.

The photographers asked him to face the lake and he complied readily—but a little stiffly.

Can you put some life in it your highness? asked one cameraman.

At once he became more animated.

Chuckling he joked with the men and told Louis Matzhold The Associated Press correspondent.

I bet I could beat you up the mountain.

He peered into the cameras and asked technical questions.

Later Edward's adjutant told the photographers.

Please use only the pictures in which the duke is smiling. This is a happy day.

SHARPSHOOTER HITS WIFE BY MISTAKE

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 3—Jack Russell known on the stage as "the lonesome cowboy" has been firing high speed bullets in his wife's direction for a long time, but hit her, he said today, in the first accident of its kind in his 14 years' experience.

Juanita Russell, the attractive 27-year-old target, nursed a bandaged upper lip where, she smilingly admitted, Russell nicked her while going through the routine of knocking cigarets and lollypops from their accustomed place.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH TO GET $30,000 PAY

Yearly Salary Recommended in Civil List Which Fails To Mention Windsor

By The Associated Press

LONDON May 3—Princess Elizabeth pretty 11-year-old heir presumptive to the British throne was recommended today for an annual grant of 6,000 pounds ($30,000) in a report of the commons civil list committee.

The Duke of Windsor who gave up an annual salary of approximately $2,000,000 in addition to his throne, was not mentioned.

Total recommendations of the civil list are 410,000 pounds ($2,050,000) annually. When Princess Elizabeth comes of age the committee recommends her pension be increased to 15,000 pounds ($75,000) a year.

The Duke of Gloucester who has taken over additional duties during Princess Elizabeth's minority was recommended for a "raise." The committee suggested he be paid an annuity of 10,000 pounds ($50,000) in addition to his present annual stipend of 25,000 pounds ($125,000). It was stipulated that the additional money for Elizabeth and Gloucester be taken from the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall.

Queen Mary's previous provision of 70,000 pounds ($350,000) was maintained.

The report disclosed that Major Clement Richard Attlee house Labor leader had moved for an amendment suggesting greater simplicity in the state and ceremonial of the court is desirable to bring it into accord with modern conceptions. The amendment was defeated.

The committee adopted the provisions suggested by the king in a message to commons several weeks ago. It is taken for granted the present recommendations will be passed by parliament.

The king did not mention any pension for his elder brother Edward whom he replaced after Edward's abdication. It is assumed Edward will be maintained privately out of the royal coffers.

Credit for $200,000 once laid aside for the event of Edward's marriage was left untouched today as Edward left his Alpine retreat to go to Mrs Wallis Warfield Simpson for whose love he relinquished the throne.

HACK BULLET DATA DUE IN FEW DAYS

Morrow County Inquiry Awaits Report Officials Say

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD May 3 Prosecuting Attorney Nelson Campbell said today that he expected to receive complete reports in no more than two days on the ballistic tests made on guns confiscated by authorities after the murder of Mrs Caroline Hack who found dead in bed at her home near Cardington April 19. She had been shot through the head with a 22 caliber bullet from a revolver or rifle.

The guns taken by authorities for examinations were found by officials as they conducted an investigation of the murder and are being given thorough tests in comparison with the two bullets found by Coroner Dr T Carr.

Campbell also said today that while there is a possibility that a lie detector may be brought here to be used in connection with the examination of some who have previously questioned he has made no definite plan to use it. The results obtained by lie detectors he said show wide variations and while they are often of value we do not know definitely one would be of any service here.

To obtain such an instrument the county would have to pay $100 for every day it is used and also pay the expenses of a trained operator.

PARKER DEFENDANTS ADMIT THEIR GUILT

By The Associated Press

NEWARK N J May 3—Three co-defendants of Ellis H Parker and his son Ellis Jr changed their pleas to guilty in federal court today immediately after a jury was sworn to try the five on conspiracy charges growing out of the Wendel sequel to the Lindbergh kidnaping. The three were Martin Schlossman Harry Weiss and Murray Bleefeld.

Federal Judge William Clark accepted the guilty pleas and counsel for the Brooklyn men withdrew from the trial.

Schlossman and Weiss were convicted and Bleefeld pleaded guilty to a state kidnaping charge in Brooklyn in connection with the charge of Paul H Wendel former Trenton attorney that he was abducted and forced to confess falsely to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Schlossman and Weiss were the first to announce through counsel they wished to plead guilty. The attorney for Bleefeld then obtained a short court recess following which he announced his client also had decided to change his plea to one of guilty.

Counsel for the Parkers had charged earlier in the trial that some of the Brooklyn defendants planned to turn government witnesses.

United States Attorney John J Quinn denied today that he had any advance knowledge of the plans of the Brooklyn men to plead guilty.

SLASH OF ONE-THIRD IN RELIEF SUGGESTED

Believed Possible During Present Econoy Mood in Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 3 — The ... those heading a "relief" ... money bill sought ... today of cutting ... from the $1,500,000,000 recommended by President Roosevelt as 1938 relief spending.

Rep Woodrum Dem ... Va chairman of the subcommittee holding the hearings said he believed the present economy mood might result in such a cut.

There was no prospect however of early action. Speaker Bankhead expressed the belief a final decision on the amount would be held in abeyance until the President returns from his fishing trip.

Relief spending has caused the bulk of the federal deficit. This year's spending has been at a rate ... that the total will be nearly $2,000,000,000.

Some critics of the size of federal relief expenditures have contended state and local governments were not bearing their share.

Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins replying to this argument said in a statement yesterday that state and local governments spent $1,000,000,000 ... of 1936 and would spend more this year.

While economy discussion centered for the present on relief spending congressional leaders looked for other sources of potential reductions.

Woodrum wrote heads of 32 independent federal agencies asking them to reexamine their budgets and help congress cut at least 10 per cent from their requested appropriations.

A flat 10 per cent cut and a proposal to impound 10 per cent of appropriations were the two major suggested approaches to the economy problem.

COURT DELAYS RULING ON SOCIAL SECURITY

Decision Expected May 17 or Later May Include Pensions and Job Insurance

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 3 The supreme court deferred today at least until May 17 a final decision on constitutionality of the federal social security act.

This action made it possible that the court will decide at the same time separate cases involving the unemployment insurance and old age pension provisions of the security law.

Arguments on the unemployment insurance cases already have been heard. The justices will listen to debate on the old age pension portions tomorrow or Wednesday.

They then will adjourn until May 17 and devote their entire time to writing opinions preparatory to adjourning for the summer early in June.

By a unanimous vote the court held constitutional a provision of the 1934 revenue act imposing a processing tax of three cents per pound on coconut oil imported from the Philippines.

In the only other decision delivered the justices upheld the right of the federal government to sue in the courts for recovery of money in this country assigned to it by the Soviet government under the 1933 Litvinov agreement.

Pirates Sink Reds, 7 to 2; Hold National Loop Lead

By SID FEDER

Maybe Jack Doyle wasn't so far wrong, at that.

As the Broadway commissioner who will take any kind of a bet on the pennant races, Jack recently cut the odds on the Pittsburgh Pirates and Detroit Tigers to [illegible] each. At first the folks couldn't see the reason for it with such competition as the Cardinals, Giants and Cubs in one loop and the Yankees in the other.

But Jack isn't taking many chances where the family bank roll is concerned. And the fact that the Bucs and the Bengals are in first place in their respective leagues today prove it.

Bolstered by their best pitching staff in years, the odds on the Pirates have been dropped all the way [illegible]. With [illegible] the [illegible] Pirates [illegible] the National League lead yesterday on a [illegible] from Cincinnati. St. Louis [illegible] Bill Lee [illegible] 4-1 defeat [illegible] of the Cubs.

[illegible] Bill H[illegible] days with a [illegible]. Pitchers [illegible] Frenchy [illegible] Catcher Gabby Hartnett [illegible] docked for repairs.

Lou Gehrig finally [illegible] and [illegible] but the Yankees [illegible] in their run-making slump and went down 5-4 before the Red Sox [illegible] the American League [illegible]. Mickey Cochrane and his [illegible] hitting Detroits. Gerry Walker again was the big noise, belting a seventh inning homer for the victory as Detroit ran its winning [illegible] the White Sox 6-5.

Van Lingle Mungo had his fast ball smoking, and stopped the Phillies with three hits and nine strikeouts as the Dodgers put on a five-run spree in the eighth for a 5-1 victory. Cliff Melton, south paw rookie hope of the New York Giants, also whiffed nine and finished on top with a four hit 3-1 win over the Boston Bees.

Perhaps the most surprising result of the day was that turned in by the Senators over the Athletics shortly before announcing the release of Catcher Shanty Hogan to Indianapolis. Washington won its first victory in five starts against Connie Mack's youngsters, but the Nats had to put on a five run rally in the ninth before finally doing it 10-7. Cleveland's battle with the St. Louis Browns was rained out.

KENASTON, NICHOLS TO CLASH TONIGHT

Tonight's wrestling match at the Shovel gymnasium will be more or less a proving ground for two grapplers who have already displayed their wares before Marion mat fans. Sergeant Bob Kenaston of Silver City, Ore., will take on a past master of the game when he faces Hugh Nichols, Hollywood's former light heavyweight title holder. The Hub, Nebraska's scissor exponent likewise will be facing a tough assignment in meeting the tough Texans, Billy Vandiver.

Kenaston has been the heavy favorite of fans here for quite some time and his meeting with the hefty exchampion should prove or disprove whether his prestige is well founded. Nichols held the National Wrestling association's crown until he was defeated two seasons ago in a battle with LeRoy McGuirk. The title since has been lifted from McGuirk's brow by Bobby Chick.

Both of the main attractions will be over the usual route of 30 minutes with two falls to win. The program is scheduled to open at 8:30 o'clock with a 20 minute preliminary bout.

HE WAS HEADING FOR "HOME SWEET HOME" WHEN BANG! A BLOW-OUT!

Read TED HUSING'S Account of a Chicago Motorist's Terror-Crowded Experience

Traffic was heavy that hot Summer afternoon as Mr. E. P. Keenan of Chicago, returning from a business trip, sped along Waukegan Road. His passenger did most of the talking. Mr. Keenan was too busy keeping one eye glued on the oncoming traffic in the other lane.

"We're making pretty good time," Keenan's pal said. He couldn't reach "Home Sweet Home" quickly enough.

A Close Shave

Bang! Like a thunderbolt the staccato crack of a blow-out rose above the roar of the motor. In desperation Mr. Keenan gave the steering wheel one final frenzied tug. The car bolted—lurched to the right, missing a moving van by inches—and came to a stop at the brink of a deep ditch.

It took Goodrich engineers to fight this blow-out hazard for American motorists and provide them with a real defense against high speed blow-outs like this. They invented the now famous Life-Saver Golden Ply, which is found only in Goodrich Silvertown Tires. This remarkable Golden Ply is a layer of special rubber and full floating cords scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds.

Are Your Tires Safe?

You can bet your bottom dollar that Mr. E. P. Keenan of Chicago is now riding on Silvertowns. Because for safer motoring he's convinced that there are no safer tires than Goodrich Silvertowns. See these life-saving tires that will give you months of extra, trouble-free mileage. The sooner the safer.

"GAME TODAY OPENS" HOME SEASON FOR HARDING HIGH NINE

Rural School Athletes Prepare for Annual Field Meet at Prospect

[illegible] sports fan [illegible] scholastic and [illegible] track, golf [illegible] approach the [illegible] this week at [illegible] of par[illegible].

[illegible] schedule [illegible] features this afternoon at 4 o'clock Marion High school baseball team [illegible] its home season with the [illegible] High club of [illegible]. The contest is the [illegible] of four already definitely [illegible] for the Marion team's spring schedule. Marion will travel [illegible] May 10 and entertain [illegible] May [illegible].

Of special interest to rural high school athletes is the annual [illegible] track meet scheduled for Saturday, but which opens with [illegible] this afternoon on the Prospect track. Preliminaries of the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes and the 880-yard run are to be held today with another set of eliminations scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

The city's summer softball league will open two weeks from today when members of Sunday School league swing into battle for victories in first round contests. Other loops, Sunday School No. 2, Industrial and the Friday Night league will begin activity the same week. Rosters of the leagues are virtually complete and softball commission members will probably meet late this week to compile the season's schedule.

Independent baseball and softball aggregations throughout the city have already held spring practice sessions and plan to follow heavy schedules of games at home and abroad with other clubs from this district. At least three baseball aggregations will represent the city this season. The Marion Steam Shovel A. A. club, Marion Independents and the Commercial Steel Castings Co. team have held spring workouts and are preparing to meet all comers.

Indications that the golf bug has already invaded the city is shown in reports from the Marion Country club and the city's only public course, Mar-O-Del. Both yesterday's playing was the heaviest of the season. Both courses reported large turnouts Sunday with ideal conditions prevailing for enthusiasts of the game.

As participants in other sports are conditioning for the seasons already at hand, gridiron candidates from both Harding and St. Mary High schools are getting in their spring workouts for next fall's activity. St. Mary, for the first time in 17 years, will put a football team on the field this year and under the direction of Coach Bob Kelly prospective members of the eleven have been working out daily at the Silk Mill athletic field.

The Hardingmen have been training under the supervision of Coach Carl Cramer and Assistant Bill Williams and are slated to wind up their four week spring practice schedule Friday. Starting with light workouts, the gridders have progressed through drillwork to heavy scrimmage sessions. This week, because of the state athletic association ruling that spring practice may be of only four weeks duration, will find the pigskin workouts being brought to a swift close.

FELLER "BAKES" MILLION-DOLLAR ARM

Bob Feller is shown as he exposed his million dollar pitching arm to the warm sun at the Cleveland Indians ball park, but he refrained from throwing even in practice. After four days of treatment the injury—tearing a few fibers just below the elbow—was little improved and his physician said such injuries ordinarily require two or three weeks to heal.

COLUMBUS BEATEN BY HENS; SAINTS LOSE PAIR OF GAMES

Brewers Leading American Association With Millers Half a Game Behind

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 3—Gabby Street's St. Paul club, figured to be up there battling for the American Association title, is having all kinds of trouble keeping out of the cellar.

After losing a 7 to 6 decision in 10 innings to their arch rivals, the Minneapolis Millers, on Saturday, the seventh-place Saints took another smacking yesterday—a 4 to 0 whitewashing from their sixth defeat in nine games. With 10,315 home fans looking on, the Saints were held to five hits by Belve Bean while the Millers combed Babe Phelps and Hugo Klaerner for 12.

The victory left the Millers only a half game behind the pace-setting Milwaukee Brewers. The Brewers and Kansas City were kept idle by rain yesterday, but the tail end Blues came from behind Saturday to win 6 to 5.

Louisville's Colonels were victims of the whitewash brush twice during the week end. Indianapolis won Saturday's tussle 2 to 0 and after losing the first game of a doubleheader yesterday 9 to 6 came right back to shut out the Colonels 5 to 0 in the second game.

Louisville combined 12 hits with four walks in the first game to outdo the Indians while in the second battle Lefty Logan held Louisville to five hits in seven innings, the game having been called to comply with Indianapolis' Sunday closing law.

Roy Cullenbine made only one hit for Toledo against Columbus yesterday, but it was a home run in the 13th inning that gave the Mud Hens a 3 to 2 triumph. Toledo tied the score in the ninth on a pair of scratch hits by Croucher and Tresh. Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who held Columbus to two hits in the last seven innings after replacing Lefty Sullivan, received credit for the victory. Morton Cooper, who succeeded Ed Heusser on the mound for the Red Birds, was the loser.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 3—S. Burdick, sports editor of the Dayton News, is in on what he says is the best golf story of the year. Seems Alex Campbell, veteran Dayton golf pro, was paying his first visit to Florida.

Two days after he arrived at Sarasota he went down with appendicitis. They rushed Alex to a hospital and poured the ether to him. "Count to one hundred," ordered the medico as the drug began to take effect. Alex obligingly began, but stopped when he got to 43. "Forty-two—what a hell of a score to go out in," he murmured as he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Reports list Johnny Murphy, Jake Powell and Bump Hadley as Yankee trading material. Sing Sing will increase its "major sports" curriculum to four next winter, adding ice hockey to football, baseball and basketball. After Pompoon's flop in the Wood Memorial Saturday, you'd naturally expect his Derby odds to soar. Well, they did. He's 16 to 1 now and you can have him. Giant batting slump ended the day Al Schacht served 'em up in hitting practice.

Time marches on and so does Tommy Henrich. Saturday afternoon Tommy guest-columned in a New York newspaper that he was getting a real thrill out of being with the Yankees. Later the same afternoon he was across the Hudson pinch-hitting for the Newark Bears.

HALL OF FAME TO GET YOUNG'S CUPS

By The Associated Press

DOVER, O., May 3—Seventy-year-old Cy Young, veteran of 22 big league campaigns, glanced pensively today at an imposing array of loving cups he plans to present to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

"I don't need them," said the tall angular pitcher who won 511 out of 873 games.

The Hall of Fame, to which baseball writers recently named him, would be the best place for the collection, worth about $700, Young said.

MERCHANTS TO PRACTICE

The Marion Merchants All Star softball team will practice tonight at 6 o'clock on the Central Junior High school diamond. The team last year played under the banner of the Saratoga Grill and members of the club and others wishing to try out for positions on the team are urged to attend the workout tonight. Teams wishing to book games with the Merchants are asked to write Manager Robert Putman at 131 East Center street.

HORSE and COW SALE
WEDNESDAY MAY 5
10 30 A M
Bucyrus Livestock Commission Co
On Plymouth Road State Route 98
BUCYRUS OHIO

We sold 218 horses and mules in this market Wednesday and feel safe in saying for the number you won't find as many good horses with shape quality and color anywhere as we had here Wednesday The price on some of the better kind were fully steady but there were spots in the auction that looked weaker than at some of the previous sales

Don't think there is any question that you can buy more quality and better broke horses here for the money than any place Our shippers are experienced buyers and know the kind to buy so if you will keep us posted by wire at our expense we can keep them posted as to the kind to buy which is a big help to both the buyer and seller

We get our horses fresh each week. The big majority are trucked in the morning of the sale so you do not need to be afraid of getting a lot of stale horses

From the number already reported we look for another good run next Wednesday and will be glad to have you with us then or any time you can come Will also have another good consignment of dairy cows for this sale

Horse and Cow Sale each Wednesday Cattle Sheep and Hog Sale each Saturday

Your presence will be appreciated

SELECT STOCKS CLIMB SLOWLY

Steels, Oils, Rails and Aircrafts Up Fractions to Two Points in Dull Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 3 — While buyers nibbled at selected stocks in today's market, the acquisitive appetite was far from voracious.

Favored steels, oils, rails, aircrafts and specialties were bid up fractions to 2 points in unusually slow dealings, but there was an assortment of losers around noon.

With corporate statements and dividends highly satisfactory, sellers were timid throughout.

Bonds were quiet and slightly improved. Commodities were uneven. The French franc pushed up briskly in foreign exchange transactions and sterling gave ground.

Stocks in the popular column most of the session included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Standard Oil of New Jersey, New York Central, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, American Telephone, and Procter & Gamble.

The Hollywood moving picture strike apparently put the brakes on amusement issues. Inclined to droop were Paramount, Loew's and Twentieth Century-Fox.

The come-back of London and Paris markets helped to stiffen the domestic temper. While it was realized there yet may be repercussions from the British settlement date Thursday, when financial houses that were hard hit in recent commodity speculation will be called on for payment, advices from abroad indicated the week was expected to pass without severe unsettlement.

Attention was still being paid the possibility of a substantial summer recession in business. It was pointed out in analytical quarters, however, this may appear more serious than it actually is in terms of most production indices, because of likelihood contraction in the steel and automobile fields will come at the same time.

[illegible] the part of the property was in [illegible] for the [illegible] of their [illegible] therefore have not [illegible] items [illegible] about $8[illegible] of the total unpaid deposits. The [illegible] will [illegible] not be payable until water service is installed on the premises [illegible] the [illegible]

He also suggests that an $18,000 item in the company's book value be eliminated, this amount having been paid in 1926 to an attorney for reorganizing the company. Mr. Wood contends the cost of reorganization was set up in the original capital structure of the reorganized company and the latter addition to the capital structure of $18,000 for reorganization fees appears to him to be improper.

Future Operating Costs

Turning his attention to the operating expenses of the company in the past as a probable basis on which future operating costs would be considered by the commission in the rate hearing, Mr. Wood expressed the opinion that a number of expenses incurred by the company in 1936 were of an unusual nature, would not come up again for years and consequently should not be considered by the commission as ordinary operating expense in computing a water rate for Marion.

One of the extraordinary expenses he states resulted from a very heavy waste of water during 1936. He continues: The percentage of unaccounted for water between the distribution system and the consumer was 17.96 per cent, the highest in the recorded history of the company compared with an average of 30.1[illegible] per cent for the three preceding years. Upon inquiry it was learned that a break in one of the distribution mains, which was not located for a period of about nine months, had been responsible for this unprecedented situation. He said he learned that while the company pumped 18[illegible] 9[illegible],000 gallons of water into its mains in 1936 only 51[illegible]99,000 was paid for by customers due to the leak and points out that the company consequently incurred unusual expenses in the pumping and purification of the wasted water. Due to this extraordinary expense at least $6,000 should be deducted from 1936 operating expenses in figuring normal operating expenses, he states.

Continuing his comments on the leak Mr. Woods adds: Unfortunate as was this heavy waste of water and the increased expenses incident thereto, it appears to demonstrate by actual experience that with volume production operating costs decrease materially per unit. Condensed data bearing on this situation is presented which shows that the production cost of 18[illegible] 000 gallons in 1936 was $111.19 per million gallons whereas the production cost of [illegible] gallons average for the preceding three years was $175.1[illegible] per million gallons, thus showing a lower cost of $34[illegible] per million gallons during 1936.

Another Unusual Expense

Another unusual expense he suggests removing from the 1936 operating costs is a $[illegible],000 expenditure in connection with voluntary [illegible] tendered the city of Marion in [illegible] a bond issue [illegible] the proceeds of which certain obligations owing by the city to utility companies were paid. This refers to a deficiency bond issue through which the city paid [illegible] hydrant rental and street lighting bills. Since such an expense [illegible] on the company [illegible] for the first time in the company's history it should not be [illegible] with the ordinary operating expense he [illegible]

Mr. Wood [illegible] suggests [illegible] making [illegible] concerned [illegible] the Marion Water Company [illegible] affiliated company [illegible] for management, legal and engineering fee [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] as many employes now created [illegible]

[illegible] rental duties and [illegible] interest [illegible] were [illegible] company's [illegible] and [illegible] the benefits of [illegible] of the co[illegible] careful management [illegible] Therefore [illegible] rate [illegible] to the profit of the [illegible] given in [illegible] excluding a [illegible] $[illegible]

In a discussion of the company's [illegible] Mr. Wood [illegible] from [illegible] of water to domestic [illegible] $[illegible] in 193[illegible] increased about five and one-half per cent over the average for the [illegible] that in projecting [illegible] for [illegible] class of service it is believed [illegible] should be given to the fact that if rates [illegible] the trend would [illegible] He referred to a slight [illegible] industrial sales [illegible] an illustration of a bad situation getting worse and seems to explain itself by reference to the [illegible] the present high rate schedule in 1929, he [illegible] of revenue has dropped from $28,679.12 in that year to $[illegible] in 1936.

Mr. Wood contends a [illegible] allowance for depreciation in 1936 is justified and that the company should not be permitted to charge any large amount to its 1936 operating expenses for depreciation purposes. Pointing out that water systems depreciate slowly he said, in fact it seems to me the judgment of engineers based upon an inspection that the property has improved. He cites figures [illegible] appraisal [illegible] condition [illegible] per cent [illegible] 1932 to [illegible] per cent [illegible] April 1, 1935 and [illegible] 8.45 per cent [illegible] paving of [illegible] and other [illegible] water [illegible] to 1936 [illegible] expenses [illegible] not have to be borne by the company [illegible]

Basis of Estimate

In placing a valuation of $1,[illegible] 236 on the waterworks property here the company contends it would cost $1,631,[illegible] to replace with new equipment and charged off the difference to depreciation. The biggest single item in the appraisal list is $593,507 for the distribution system.

Mr. Powers testified that the American Water Works and Electric Co. and the Marion Water Co. are affiliated interests. This [illegible] reason that the Marion Water [illegible] Ohio Cities Water corporation [illegible] owned by Community Water Service Co. and the American Water Works and Electric Co. Real Maternity Floor Aim of City Hospital

Remodeling Project Planned Soon; Woman's Board Buys New Modern Equipment.

Marion City hospital is nearer one of its ambitions—a real maternity floor this year than when national baby week was observed a year ago.

A temporary delivery room has been set up on the second floor where the mothers' rooms and nursery are located, and within about a month it is anticipated a remodeling project will be completed.

When the project is completed the X-ray room will have been moved from the second floor and on the west side of the second floor a new delivery room will take its place.

The woman's board has purchased the newest, most up-to-date delivery table for the new room, and in the near future will buy a full set of instruments—another of the many praiseworthy things the board has done with the money it raises at its annual circus, ball and garden party. The new table is ordered and will be added to the hospital equipment within a short time.

Until the temporary delivery room was established a short time ago, mothers were moved from their rooms on the second to the delivery room on third and returned to second floor. The new plan will add greatly to the comfort of the mother, officials believe.

New Identification Method

Since Miss Margaret Parker became superintendent new methods of identifying babies have been established. Now every baby born is decorated immediately with a bead necklace, the beads lettered with the family name, and footprints are taken. When the mother leaves the hospital she is presented with a birth certificate with the baby's footprint. A year ago one physician was following the footprint method of identification but now the ultra-modern method is used in all cases.

The pink and white nursery with accommodations for eight babies, is the pet project of the In as Much circle of the King's Daughters. The women meet regularly to sew and funds raised by the circle go to purchase all the materials for bands, squares, gowns, sheets, shirts and crib pads used in the nursery.

From Jan. 1, 1936, to April 1, 1937, there were 165 babies born at the hospital, seven of which were "incubator babies" requiring special care over periods of weeks.

Among the newcomers since last national baby week was tiny Laura Dale Kinney who weighed two and one-quarter pounds at birth and still holds the hospital record of being the smallest baby born there.

Laura Dale will be 10 months old on May 7 and weighed in last week at 12 pounds. Her mother, Mrs. Z. R. Kinney of 376 Cheney street, said last week that Laura Dale is "just fine" and except for a few slight colds during the winter has been as perfect as a baby could be. The mite of an infant had hospital nurses and physicians on their toes for weeks while she snuggled in the incubator.

Visiting Hours

To save the new mothers' nerves and keep the second floor as quiet and peaceful as possible visiting hours in the maternity ward are from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m., and children under 12 years of age are not admitted, the last particularly because small children going to school are exposed to germs which might be carried into the ward and cause untold disaster and distress. Feeding time is every three or four hours, according to the attending physician's orders.

Care of the babies is the pleasant task of three nurses, Miss Estelle Gilbert, Miss Loretta Winters and Miss Dorothy Smith. One or two of the young women gives the baby its first bath, and treats each eye with a one per cent solution of silver nitrate as state law requires.

DAILY NAPS NEEDED BY SMALL CHILDREN

Little children need a nap every day. When babies are taken into the outdoors for their naps, their eyes should be shaded from the sun.

All children have certain natural traits which should be encouraged equally. There should be vigorous active play, "pretending," and creating or making things. Character and body will both be developed if parents see to it that all these needs have their share of toys.

NEW HAMMOCK AIDS IN BATHING

A manufacturer of babies' rubber bathtubs has introduced a rubber hammock which may be purchased with the tub or as a separate inexpensive item for mothers who already own the tubs.

The feature of that hammock is a head rest which keeps the baby's head out of the water and leaves his mother with both hands free to give him his bath quickly and efficiently.

HOODED BLANKET.

On cold days mothers welcome the hooded blanket into which the baby can be securely fastened, whether he lies in his bed or takes the outside air. Now, since protection from drafts is considered as important as warmth in clothing, it is possible to find the same type of garment in a lighter weight suitable for warm weather.

FRUIT HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

A child should have some fruit in the diet every day. Where fresh fruit is not possible dried fruits may be used. Dried fruits also have a rich iron content. Fresh fruit should be given only in season. All fruits should be wiped off with a damp cloth before being eaten.

TATTLE-TALE EARNS DISLIKE OF FRIENDS

Mothers Often Responsible for Encouraging Child in Tale Bearing.

Walter was an agreeable lad, big for his age, broad of chest and manly looking. Yet, he wasn't popular at school. None of his classmates seemed to like him. Nor was he much more popular at home, at least among the younger members of the family. Sister Anne and Brothers Fred and Harold would have nothing to do with Walter if they could help it.

What was wrong? It was the usual thing: Walter was addicted to telling tales. It's a fault no child will forgive.

It doesn't matter to Willie's schoolmates whether he is the son of a distinguished banker or some one less important; whether he is handsome or ugly, little or big, clever or a bit dumb. All they insist upon is that he be a good sport. And being a good sport, according to a child's point of view, consists principally of two things—not to cry when you're hurt, and not to tell tales.

Many mothers, without realizing it, encourage their children to tell tales. It seems to simplify things for the busy mother to let one child report upon the doings of another. Oscar, put in charge of the younger children, reports, not without a note of triumph in his voice, that Janie has just tried to set fire to the curtains while Tommy has cut the clothes line.

Mother is furious, of course, with the younger children and gives them a proper punishment in front of Oscar. Oscar, of course, she praises, and he feels very superior and grown up, quite in league and on an equal with mother.

It is a cheap and easy way of winning favor, feeling superior, coming to stand first with mother—telling tales on brother and sister. Oscar tries it again. He takes great care to report everything, exaggerating things a little perhaps. Finally, only one more little step and Oscar is blaming things on Janie and Tommy, things that were really his fault.

City Regulations Guard Quality of Milk Here

Dr. J. T. Gruber Keeps Eye on Production and Distribution of Essential Food.

City regulations governing milk guard it from "cow to consumer," it was revealed in an interview yesterday with Dr. J. T. Gruber, who has been city milk and food inspector since the program of strict supervision of production and distribution of milk was instituted in the city 12 years ago.

Four points of inspection insure consumers pure milk for their tables. Among the most important functions of Dr. Gruber's program is the inspection of milk plants. He regularly checks all equipment, including pasteurizers, coolers, bottlers, capners, refrigeration systems and machinery used to sterilize bottles.

Second in the inspection program is the platform checking, where samples of the milk are obtained as the cans are unloaded when they are brought to the dairy from the producing farms. The samples are tested for odor, flavor, sediment and per cent of acid. Rigid inspection of the dairy farms and their facilities is also a part of the many precautions taken to assure a healthful milk supply.

The farm supervisions consists of inspections of the cows, barns, milk houses and their equipment. Failing to follow regulations of cleanliness and methods outlined under the city milk regulations, the producers face temporary suspension and are prohibited from selling milk in the city. The suspension may continue under the direction of the inspector until the producer brings his farm up to standard.

319 Permits in Year

Last year 319 permits were granted to producers to sell milk for consumption in the city. That number includes farms from seven counties, Marion, Morrow, Union, Delaware, Crawford, Wyandot and Hardin. Among the entire group the inspector issued 154 orders to clean and repair various items which came to his attention in visiting the farms. Twenty-two cows were eliminated and 32 farms, whose owners failed to comply with the regulations, were excluded from selling milk here. Twelve of that number were later reinstated when suggested changes were made.

A program of laboratory contests is the fourth step in the series of inspections and plays a major role in the plan to insure the purity of milk. Under this setup, samples are obtained from dairies and milk wagons while they are on their delivery route. The samples are then taken to the inspector's laboratory in the city building where they are tested for bacteria count, temperature, amount of solids, butterfat and moisture.

"Milk, above all foods, should have the most exacting care in regard to sanitation, cooling and serving," Dr. Gruber pointed out. Regulations covering the production and distribution become necessary as communities grow and distributors reach further and further into the outlying district for an adequate supply. Approximately 5,000 gallons of milk are distributed in Marion each day, representing the product of some 300 herds of cattle and about 2,500 cows, Dr. Gruber said.

When a bottle of milk arrives on the consumers' doorstep it should immediately be placed in a refrigerator to assure its safekeeping, especially during the warm summer months. Some bottles, Dr. Gruber pointed out, are equipped with a removable covercap to protect the rim of the bottle, while those which are not should be washed thoroughly around the top before the cap is removed.

Urges Extreme Care

In cases where there is contagion in a family, such as scarlet or typhoid fever, the bottles should be kept at the home until the quarantine is lifted. The bottles then should be placed in a container and boiled for not less than 15 minutes to destroy germs, he advised. Although the dairies sterilize the bottles, they should be boiled before leaving a home where members of the family have had a contagious disease, to prevent any possible spread of germs.

Several suggestions to the housewife in serving milk was made by the milk and food inspector. The milk, he said, should not be poured from the bottle to a pitcher and then served but should be poured directly from the bottle to the drinking glass. If milk which has been placed in a pitcher is returned to the original container it assumes an "off-flavor," which is responsible in many cases for children losing their appetites for it, Dr. Gruber said.

For this reason, milk, which is recognized by health authorities as the most essential food of the growing child, should be handled particularly careful in an effort to retain its good flavor, Dr. Gruber added. For the same reason it should not be exposed in an open container to fruit, fish or other foods.

CANNED FOOD OF VALUE TO BABIES

Careful Inspection Guarantees Healthful Dish for Child.

Properly canned baby foods may some times be even more wholesome than fresh vegetables and cereals cooked at home since every care is taken in canning to preserve minerals which sometimes dissolve in water and the vitamins which may be destroyed by too much heat or oxygen.

The canners' plants are laboratory clean. Vegetables are carefully selected and inspected. They are strained to the degree of fineness which makes them digestible for baby.

SCHOOLS AND JUVENILE COURT SYSTEM ATTACKED

Cincinnati Judge Opposes Flunking of Pupils and Asks Treatment for Misconduct Instead of Punishment

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 3—Judge Charles W. Hoffman shuffled impressions gained in 23 years on the domestic court bench today and advocated abolition of the juvenile court and elimination of a school system which permits "flunking."

The term court connotes force and punishment, observed Judge Hoffman in an interview, and children should be treated for misconduct as one would doctor a physical or mental disorder, rather than punished.

An educational system which permits flunking is a large contributing factor to delinquency, the jurist declared, saying more than 100,000 children in Ohio schools fail in their classes annually.

Judge Hoffman [illegible] the juvenile court were [illegible] cross read and certainly not rehabilitating.

There are a number of treatments said Judge Hoffman, including a boarding home which constitutes removal of a problem child from his environment. This frequently brings about complete rehabilitation of the child.

Schools are the one agency that must be charged with the responsibility of preventing delinquency since children develop inhibitions there, Judge Hoffman said. The schools must cooperate with juvenile authorities and studies should be so arranged that there would be no flunking and to educate each child to the limit of the child's ability to learn.

In Judge Hoffman's career on the juvenile court bench in Cincinnati he estimates he has heard 35,000 [illegible] and that the average number of boys at [illegible] [illegible]

The simple cold may be the forerunner of such serious [illegible] as pneumonia, bronchitis [illegible] even tuberculosis. It is the most expensive and common affliction we have. Though the actual cause of the cold is not known we are familiar with certain facts about it. We know that many colds could be avoided if proper precautions were taken. When A Child Refuses To Eat, Don't Spank Him-Tempt Him, Expert Advises

By AURELIUS KINSEY
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO, May 3—What can you do with the child who balks, dawdles or messes over his meals?

Miss Catherine Landreth says it's wrong to use songs, stories, pleadings, scoldings, threats, forced feedings or spankings. They merely give the child a stronger spotlight of attention for which most children strive in one way or another.

She should know whereof she speaks for she faces points of young problems in her role of assistant professor of home economics and director of the Chicago university nursery school.

She contends that teaching a child to eat with pleasure [illegible] all the food placed before him should be a matter of gradual training from the time he [illegible] feed himself.

Three Hints for Mamas

She advises parents to:

1. Check the child's general health, to see that he gets enough sleep and outdoor play.

2. Prepare wholesome foods as attractively as possible, [illegible] reasonably small portions at regular intervals. Leave the food before the child for a while and then remove it without comment.

3. Make a child try [illegible] but don't force him to eat all of [illegible] or ways he dislikes. Next time serve the food in a quantity so diminutive that he will recall the last taste.

Bright Colors Help

A youngster's eating is greatly encouraged, she says, by giving him bright-colored table appointments which he can handle comfortably himself. He should have a spoon he can grip firmly, steep-sided dishes that keep the food in place and a small pitcher for pouring milk.

And it's not too early to start training when the baby makes his first awkward attempts at cooperation and independence, Miss Landreth maintains.

It can be started with a high chair but should be moved to his own low table and chair as soon as he learns to handle eating utensils. The next step [illegible] the adults' table, but not until [illegible] has thoroughly mastered manners and understands he [illegible] to have a clean plate.

GOOD POSTURE BOON TO HEALTHFUL BODY

Development of Grace and Ease Results from Correct Balance

Good posture, so closely related to the health of a growing child, is much more than merely standing straight.

Good posture is the use of all parts of the body with proper balance, with ease and grace.

The habit of holding the body in balance is learned gradually as the child learns to control his body. First as a baby he learns to sit up, creep, then to take a few steps and finally to walk. Through these stages he is learning slowly to hold his body in balance.

All around development, which is gained by strengthening all the muscles of the body through active play—climbing, throwing balls, running, jumping, skipping, shouting—lays the foundation for good posture. But the child also must strengthen the muscles that have the most to do with holding the body in good balance—abdominal, shoulder and certain leg muscles.

Good nutrition, clear sight and keen hearing, a well-balanced diet including food that builds bone and muscle, plenty of sleep and rest, varied exercise outdoors, wearing well-planned comfortable shoes and clothing, sitting in a chair that supports the lower part of the child's back and is low enough to let him keep his feet flat on the floor and sleeping in a bed that does not sag, are some of the things that result in good posture.

THREE MEALS DAILY NEEDED BY CHILD

Substantial Food Necessary For School Pupils

The school age child needs at least three good meals a day, according to a government bulletin issued by the education bureau of the interior department.

If he is to carry his lunch to school it should be good and substantial—and here the pupil will agree.

Suggestions for basket luncheons include sandwiches, dessert, fruit and a bottle of milk.

Whole wheat, oatmeal, brown, raisin or nut breads are recommended and filling may be made of eggs, chopped meat, cheese, sliced tomatoes, chopped vegetables or peanut butter and chopped raisins or dates.

For dessert suggestions include ginger, date or plain cookies with cheese, spongecake, gingerbread or sweet chocolate.

A crank operated implement has been invented for sealing tops on tin cans for home canning.

Talented Child Requires Added Parent Training

Successful Genius Capable of Better Self-Control and Self-Reliance

Every now and then Susan staged a tantrum which the family excused because Susan was so talented.

Her untidiness, her selfishness, her moods, her lack of consideration for others, all were forgiven Susan because she was gifted.

"Artists aren't like other people," Susan's mother would say with a sigh. "You can't expect it."

At a very early age Susan's parents had realized that Susan was different—a genius. You've heard of them, these child prodigies.

You can't rear them the way you would an ordinary child, can you? You can't expect these young people to be even tempered. They always are a problem. You have to expect it.

But why? Are gifted children so different from ordinary children? Or do their parents make them so by treating them differently, by excusing them all sorts of exhibitions of egotism, conceit and greed because they believe they have more than ordinary ability, which is all talent amounts to.

Every child likes to be thought different, that is if the difference implies superiority. Every child has a sense of the dramatic about himself. He loves an excuse to strut his stuff, play the misunderstood genius. He loves to feel important.

But playing the genius is the last way to become one. The talented child who has been pampered and spoiled is not only unfit for ordinary life but unfit to succeed as an artist as well.

Temperament may be tolerated in the artist who has arrived, but in the young and still unknown artist it is not tolerated for a moment in the commercial world.

Unlike the popular fallacy, a genius does not live self-sufficient in a world apart. On the contrary, they lead, most of them, very ordinary and pretty hard lives. They are dependent not only on their talent but their ability to please and adapt themselves to their patrons. The successful ones are capable of great self-control, much self-sacrifice and hard work.

In other words, the talented child needs more rather than less discipline than the ordinary child. More should be expected of him and he should be excused less.

If your Jimmie is talented it is all the more reason he should be responsible and patient. It is all the more reason he should learn early to control his temper, learn to make himself agreeable to all kinds of people and not use his "art" as an escape from life, a permanent excuse for quite ordinary faults to which the dullest of us are susceptible.

CLIMBING ACTS AS MUSCLE BUILDER

Results In Development of All Parts of Youthful Body

All children love to climb. Perhaps it is an intuition which has come from the time when life and limb depended on one's ability to climb quickly to the topmost bough of a friendly tree and so be safe from impending danger. Climbing exercises are very valuable in the development of all the muscles of the body and they are especially good for the muscles of the back. Small children are constantly climbing over chairs, sofas and up and down stairways. Various playground apparatus is valuable in providing means for climbing exercises. The household ladder which is found in most homes can also be used. It is best, of course, to have such climbing done under the watchful eye of an adult. Many children at the age of five and six are quite adept in climbing trees. But this form of play should usually be reserved until the child is older.
